The Flopper.

There has been a good deal said, thus early in the campaign, as regards the "flopper," by the Parkerites. In the first place, what is a "flopper?" the man who stands by a principle, or the other fellow? It is strange, in our way of thinking, that any sane man could imagine a man as being a "flopper" who stands by his convictions and principles although his party flops. In the case of Mr. Seibert, of Potter county, we fail to see him in the light of a "flopper." He is simply holding up the same principle and argument he held to eight years ago. Mr. Bryan is doing the same thing, and Mr. Bryan is not classed as a "flopper." The writer carries the same views he did eight years ago, and he does not consider or feel himself a "flopper." We are not courting political controversy, but as our convictions were well known in the last two presidential campaigns, and having a right to stand firm if we so desire, we deem it our privilege to defend those views, and state that it is a breach of friendship and an error in judgment for one man to brand his fellow as a "flopper" because he did not see fit to join hands, conscientiously or otherwise, with the fleeing crowd.

We believe that Parker & Davis are the candidates of the monied monopolies, and are not to be "trusted outside of the 'trust.'" Of course, all voters who are in sympathy with the monopolization of things will stick to or flop over to Parker & Davis. The Democrat or Republican who believes in legislation against the Trust has only one way to express his judgment, and the Democrat, out of two evils, will select the least, by voting for the candidate who has in his platform one plank, and that a strong one, on which to stand. The Democrat who voted for Mr. Bryan surely cannot, consistently, vote for Parker, unless his conscience is like rain water—kind 'o soaks in or returns to sea and is transformed, transfigured or disfigured—gets the principle washed out of it. Then, some consciences are like merchandise and the medium of exchange becomes more desirable than the merchandise. The man who flops with a party is as much a "flopper" as the man who flops alone. If you go to the devil with a crowd you must have asbestos wings just the same as though you went alone, only you may get 'em cheaper in job lots and have the advantage of the company that misery likes so well. We are thankful for the hope and belief that the "floppers" are not so numerous as some may think and that the laboring man is not going to be "fooled all the time."

Baptist Church.

The pastor is giving a series of Sunday sermons on "Bible's Bravest" and last Sunday night he spoke on the "Psalmist Persecuted or David's Dash from Danger." Next Sunday evening his subject will be "A Daring Daniel or The Brave Boy Moulded Into a Might Man." Short Song Service. All inside of an hour. Public cordially invited.

Preserve The Trees.

The dying of three of the tall, beautiful trees, fronting the new Presbyterian Church property supposed to have been caused by a leak in the gas line nearby, has necessitated their removal. This is much regretted by all as they were a matter of municipal pride. The large number of beautiful shade trees in Emporium, is one of its chief attractions, justly exciting the admiration of visitors. Let our property owners use every effort to preserve the trees.

Named Themselves.

A few years ago in the course of a heated political campaign the Democrats in a certain city organized a monster torch light procession. Among the marching clubs was one named the Democratic Jackson Association. This name was found to be too long to place in full upon the transparency carried at the head of the club, and so it was written in abbreviated form, like this:

DEM. JACK. ASS.

It is needless to say that the merriment of the Republicans was aroused wherever this transparency was seen.

Now is the time to buy your clothes, and the best place is at N. Seger's.

Rev. Mr. Oyler Returns.

The Rev. R. S. Oyler, of Keating Summit returned to his home last Saturday after spending six weeks in attendance at the Summer school of Theology, of Harvard University, Boston. He also took voice training in the Emmerson school of Oratory, and though necessarily a very busy man reports a pleasant time amid these classic surroundings and takes up the burden of his work with freshened enthusiasm.

The Good Fellow.

"Whenever you find a man who is slapped on the back wherever he goes and called a good fellow, go to his home and find out whether his children have got good shoes on their feet, and whether his wife is wondering how she is to pay the bills. When there is a raffle of some kind, and tickets have got to be sold for the benefit of some other good fellow, who has spent what didn't belong to him, it is the good fellow of the moment who comes along and buys the tickets with the money that he owes for honest debts. Many a man trying to be a good fellow, has disgraced himself, made his family miserable and missed a chance to be a self respecting man."

Miss Steck Pleasantly Surprised.

Last Saturday night Miss Maud Steck had a forcible and felicitious reminder of the recurrence of another birthday, when a 'dozen or more of her friends unceremoniously dropped in, their declared purpose being to help her celebrate in a becoming way the interesting event. An elegant supper was served under the supervision of her aunt Mrs. Blum. Music and games indulged in to a late hour when all dispersed, but not without showering her with their good wishes and presenting her with a china fruit dish of of choice and elegant design as a memento of the occasion. The following were present: Miss Winward, Miss Metzger, Miss Bonham, Miss Smith, Miss Lingle, the Misses Taggart, Miss Montgomery, Miss Hogan, Miss McDonald and Mrs. Branson.

Musical August 25th.

In the musical to be given in the First Methodist Episcopal Church Thursday evening, August 25th, the pipe organ numbers will be rendered by Miss Anna Metzger. At present Miss Metzger is at the head of the department of voice culture at the Randolphe-Mascon College for young women at Lynchburg, Va.. and needless to say is in the first rank of the members of her profession. The Emporium admirers of her abilities both as vocalist and instrumentalist are numerous and the opportunity to hear her upon this occasion will doubtless be taken advantage of by many. The assisting talent will consist of Miss Frank Huntley, Soprano; Mr. Geo. A. Walker, Jr., Barytone; and Mr. A. D. Ericsson, Pianist. The above list gives further guarantee of the excellence of the program and insures an evening replete with enjoyment.

When Visiting the World's Fair Ride on the Ferris Wheel.

The great Expositions held during the last fifteen years have produced two marvelous examples of engineering and constructive ability. One of these, the Eiffel Tower, was designed and built by a Frenchman at Paris for the Exposition of 1889; the other, the Ferris Wheel, was designed and built by the late Geo. W. G. Ferris for the World's Columbian Exposition at Chicago, in 1893.

Paris again held a great exposition in 1900 but failed to produce, any feature to take the place of the Eiffel Tower. In America, St. Luir, in 1904, planned and produced the greatest Exposition the World has ever seen. Scores of attempts were made to invent something more wonderful and more attractive than the Ferris Wheel, but as Paris failed to out do her own Eiffel Tower, so did St Louis fail to equal the far-famed Ferris Wheel of the World's Columbian Exposition of 1893. Arrangements were accordingly made to bring the Ferris Wheel to the Lousiana Purchase Exposition, and it was given a location near the geographical center of the grounds.

The problem of moving the Ferris Wheel from Chicago to St. Louis was stupendous—4,200 tons of material, including the 70 ton axle, besides engines, boilers and derricks and falsework, had to be transported. One hundred and seventy-five freight cars were required to move this material.

MARRIED.

TONER—REED—At the office of M. M. Larrabee, J. P., on Tuesday, Aug. 16, 1904, Mr. Mack Toner and Miss Rebeeca Reed, both of Beechwood.

Less School Money.

The majority of the school districts in Pennsylvania will receive less money for support of their common school for the year beginning June 6 than they received in 1903. This is because the amount appropriated by the last legislature to these schools is not quite as large as the appropriation made by the previous legislature.

The department of public instruction has completed the calculation for the next year, and will begin the issuidg of warrants on the district as soon as State Treasurer Mathues is ready to pay them. Mr. Mathues will probably follow the custom of withholding payments from the district during the summer vacation in order that the favorite banks may have the use of ths money during the period.

The regular annual appropriation made by the last legislature is $5,500. From the amount the legislature deducted $237,500 for the State Normal school and $50;000 for the township high school leaving a balance of $5,-212,500 for the common schools.

The amount received by the several districts next year will vary somewhat from those received for the year about closing, owing to the fact that appropriations for next year is based on new returns of teachers, resident taxables and children between six and sixteen years of age.

Following is a list of the amount to which the counties in this part of the state are entitled for the school year beginning June 6:

Cameron, $7,233,50, Elk, $32,361.27; Lycoming, $74,287.14; McKean, $47,-321.41; Potter, $28,752 17; Tioga, $50,-425.08.

Great Loss of Life.

"They called that Eastern battle a big one the other day," said the G. A. R., man "because several thousand men were killed and wounded, but that was only a shirmish compared to the big fights in my day. Times change.

"Why, at Gettysburg we lost 20,000 men and the Johnnies 30,000. In two days of the Wilderness there were in all 18,000 killed, and at Bull Run our loss was 12,000.

The losses in the France-Prussian and the Crimean wars were especially heavy, and at Omdurman, in 1896, the British killed 11,000 Dervishes, and then they say, went out next morning and finished up 3500 of the wounded. Julius Caesar's battles netted 1,000,000 men killed, and some of the other famous Roman generals never considered a fight seriously unless at least 50,000 of the enemy were put out of the business. Hannibal's troops killed 40,000 at Cannae, and that wasn't such a big affair either.

"The truth is that the invention of machine guns and the introduction of the 'open order' have made the old sort of war impossible. In the old days, when men met face to face, they fought till there wasn't any one left to fight. But that's all over."

Base Ball.

The game of base ball between Emporium and Driftwood, at the latter place, Monday, resulted in a victory for Driftwood, by a score of 9 to 3. It was an exciting game and one of absolute harmony.

There is a game booked for this place to be pulled off Saturday next between Johnsonburg and the home team. This promises to be a most interesting game as the teams are evenly matched and both have blood in the eye to win. It is hoped that there will be a good attendance.

Senator Penrose's Pun.

Senator Boies Penrose was showing a party of friends through the vaults of the United States Mint.

"Mercy," exclaimed a woman from Baltimore, "how chilly it is down here."

"Yes, madam," replied the Senator, "you are surrounded by a cool fifty millions"—The Public Ledger.

To Remain in Emporium.

The many friends of Miss Lillian Heilman will be pleased to know that she has relinquished her position with the Grit in Williamsport and will be a member of the borough force of instructors, having been engaged to teach the C. Primary grade the coming year.

Cholera Infantum.

This disease has lost its terror since Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy came into general use. The uniform success which attends the use of this remedy, in all cases of bowel complaints in children has made it a favorite whereever its value has become known. For sale by Jno. E. Smith, Sterling Run.

For Deaf Mute Mission.

The monthly missionary offering in Emmanuel Church next Sunday morning will be for the Mid-Western Deaf Mute Mission.

Ice Cream To-Night.

The members of Saint Mark's congegation will serve ice cream on their Church lawn this (Thursday) evening and will appreciate any patronage accorded them in their worthy efforts.

World's Fair Excursions.

Low-rate ten-day coach excursions via Pennsylvania Railroad, August 3, 10, 17, 24, and 31. Rate $15.95 from Emporium. Train leaves Emporium at 8:10 a. m., connecting with special train from New York arriving St. Louis 4:15 p. m.,next day. 3230-23-5t

Moving Big Saw Mill.

The first train of about 20 cars length, bearing the dissected remains of the big DuBois saw mill, pulled out for Dents Run a few days ago. The outfit was hauled by Mr. DuBois' large locomotive. Several trips will be made before all the material for the new mill on Hicks Run is transferred to that place.—Lock Haven Republican.

Firemen's Convention.

The following paragraph we clip from the Warren Mirror: "The Firemen's Convention proved somewhat of a disappointment to the business men at Warren for the reason that they figured on a crowd for at least three days. A small percentage came on Wednesday and about the same number remained Friday, and Thursday was the only big day of the week."

Renovo Hose Company Wins The First Honors.

West Branch Hose Co , No. 2 of Renovo won the first prizes at Warren on Friday in the competive drills. The prizes consisted of $100 in cash and a handsome silver trumpet and were well worth striving for.

The next annual meeting of the association will be held in Bradford in August 1905.

Wreck at Driftwood.

In the Driftwood yards of the Allegheny Valley railroad, Sunday a passenger train ran into a couple of freight cars and the passenger engine and a baggage coach were wrecked. Mrs. Krebs, wife of the passenger conductor, had three ribs broken. Another women had her collar bone broken.

Annual Picnic.

The annual picnic of the First Methodist Episcopal Church Sunday School yesterday, at Keystone Park was a pleasant affair, despite the drenching rain that came in the late afternoon. Above 200 was present. Games were played and the well ladened tables offered a tempting treat to the hungry appetites.

Reception.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Leet, on East Third St., was last Tuesday night the scene of a pleasant reception given in honor of their guests Miss May Sheller, of Port Royal, Miss Bessie Smith, of Philadelphia, Miss Bertha Taylor, of Cresson, and Mr. Lew Haskill of Coudersport. Miss Iva Leet, who came home from Buffalo to attend the function, was one of the receiving party which consisted of nine persons. About fifty people were present at intervals, during the evening, to greet the happy guests, partake of the choice refreshments and enjoy the excellent music, furnished by Mr. A. D. Ericsson, pianist and Miss Smith vocalist. The affair was voted a fine success.

The Man Who's in Debt.

The man who can easily pay his debts and who refuses to do so, is dishonest. He may pose as an upright, honorable man, but he is a swindler nevertheless

If he runs up large bills intending, beforehand, to let the accounts stand indefinitely, he is perpetrating a fraud on the man who furnishes him with articles or services secured in that way.

He realizes that grocers, meat dealers, clothiers, physicians and others who provide for the needs of a family are required to pay their bills and meet their obligations, but the deadbeat does not concern himself about their interests.

His scheme is to impose upon them and to get something for nothing at their expense.

A man who is temporarily without means of support may for a time run behind in his accounts. He pays when he is able to do so. His case is not to be classed with that of the chronic dead-beat to whom reference is made in these remarks.

The larger type has no more honesty in him than a burglar. And he lacks the burglar's courage. He takes no chances.

But he takes such other things as he can grab.—Bradford Era.

Some Medicine For Us.

Mr. Whitman Osgood, of Washington who has just returned from a journey to St. Louis by automobile, has this to say about the roads:

"The condition of the roads was varied. They were good in Maryland, but all through Pennsylvania we struck nothing but abominable stretches of ground not worthy of the name of roads. The roads in West Virginia were in fair condition, and there was an improvement in Ohio. The roads, in Indiana were good, but those of Illinois were inconceivably bad. I found the condition of the roads a pretty fair index to the prosperity and intelligence of the people living along them.

His Middle Name.

Ex-Senator Henry G. Davis, within the hour of his nomination for the Vice Presidency, was sought out by a correspondent for a newspaper that has a penchant for middle names. According to instructions wired from his office the reporter asked:

"Senator, what does the 'G' in your name stand for?"

"Gassaway," was the reply.

"But really I must find out," said the reporter, smiling faintly.

"Gassaway," repeated the candidate.

"Is that West Virginia for 'chase yourself?'" inquired the young man.

"No," chuckled the ex-Senator. "It's my middle name—an old family name."

"Oh!" said the correspondent, "I thought it was a slang expression I hadn't heard before."—New York Times.

Events.

Tuesday, Sept. 6th, Sautell's Colossal Railroad Shows.

Tuesday, Sept. 6th, Annual Convention Cameron County Sunday School Association.

Monday and Tuesday, Sept, 19th and 20th, Northumberland Presbytery in the First Presbyterian Church. About sixty clergyman will attend.

Thursday and Friday, Oct. 6th and 7th, Cameron County Fair, Keystone Park.

The easiest way to get out of favor with people and make a bore of yourself is to talk too much, To know what to say and wnen to say it is a great gift. We flatter men and gain their favorable opinion much more readily by listening than by speaking. No matter how brilliant and learned a man may be, if he is always wanting to talk, and treats his companions as though they had nothing worth while to say but that he had much, they will soon avoid his company The gift of speech is a fine one, and if judiciously used will win honors and riches, but it is easily overdone. When it runs to garrulity it is tiresome beyond anything else. A blatherskite had better be deaf and dumb.—Punxs'y Spirit.

A Severe Storm.

A terrific thunder storm, accompanied by a fierce wind and a downpour of rain and hail, struck this place yesterday afternoon. While no particular damage was done our streets were kept full of flying rubbish for a short time. The light of the sun was almost completely shut out. The immense amount of rain quenched several large bonfires which were in progress dangerously close to some barns and sheds, and which the strong wind stirred to a raging condition, thus saving property.

Political Announcement.

Editor Press:—

Please announce my name as a candidate for County Treasurer, subject to the decision of the Democratic County Convention.

HENRY LUDLAM.

BRIEF MENTION.

Everybody reads the PRESS

The best clothing at the lowest prices at N. Seger's.

A charter has been granted to the Driftwood Land Co., for the sale of lots in Driftwood.

Ridgway is undergoing another epidemic of typhoid fever. It is said there are about 25 cases there at present.

Hargreave's circus has come and gone. The management was about as cheap a lot of men as we have ever met.

Call on N. Seger if you want clothes that will give you your money's worth in wear and be perfectly up to date in style.

St. Marys is experiencing an oil boom. There has been a well struck that produces twenty barrels per day and is expected to do still better.

John L. Johnson, the proprietor of the American House has men at work clearing a forty acre piece on the Portage. Another evidence of prosperity in the east ward.

We have ascertained that the Democratic leaders approached Methuselah with an offer of the vice-presidential nomination before it was finally offered to Henry G. Davis.

The Presbyterian Sunday School will picnic at Keystone Park to-morrow. They invite their friends to join them in making the day one of delight to all.

An official order has been posted by the New York Central Company, changing the name of Oak Grove, to that of Aris. The name has been selected in honor of Mrs. Orville Hickok, of Harrisbnrg, who was formerly Miss Aris Cochran, eldest daughter of Hon. J. Henry Cochran, of Williamsport.

An Exchange says: A physician gives direction in handling a splinter, which are well worth remembering. When a splinter has been driven deeply into the hand it can be extracted without pain by steam. Nearly fill a wide mouth bottle with hot water, place the injured part over the mouth of the bottle and press tightly, and in a minute or two the steam will extract both the splinter and inflammation.

The editor of an exchange hits the right spot when he says: "The sorriest fellow on earth is the fellow who will sit around and cuss his own town. If I lived astride the north pole, I would call it home and be ready to boost it up. If I could not say anything nice about it, I would say that my ice bill didn't come high. I would not stay in a town I had to cuss—not while the world is as big as it is now."

One of the features of the Cameron County Agricultural Association Fair and Picnic to be held in Keystone Park, Emporium, Pa., on Oct. 6th and 7th, will be the Baby contest. Prizes to be a silver cup for the prettiest baby, a silver cup for the best appareled baby, a silver knife, fork and spoon for the cutest baby, a silver powder box and puff for the fattest baby, and two silver mugs for the most attractive twins.

The Pennsylvania has decided to renumber all its freight cars. There are about 165,000 cars on the lines west of Pittsburg and 115,000 cars on the eastern lines, and in additions are more than 15,000 cars on the eastern lines, in the company's fast freight line. The re-numbering of the cars will be an enormous job, but when it is done the accouting reports will be greatly simplified. It is proposed to have certain blocks of numbers for each line in the system, and each class of cars will have a separate block, so that the number will show at a glance the kind of car, the capacity, and the line to which it belongs.

Wrongly Accused.

We will say for the benefit of the Independent, that the articles referred to in last week's issue of the PRESS, as having been written by Mr. J. P. McNarney, that he made a very poor guess, as that gentleman did not write a line for this paper.

Papers sent out of the county must be paid for in advance.

According to statistics collected by the government there were 47,009,367 hogs in the United States on January 1 last with an average farm valuation of $6.15 per head. Iowa leads in the total number of hogs held at that time and in the total value, the figures showing 7,364,268 head valued at more than $47,000,000.

The supreme court of Pennsylvania, in an opinion just sent to Schuylkill county, notifies the lawyers that they can profitably edit their too verbose arguments. The court warns attorneys that the court's judgment of the importance of a case is not at all influenced by the enormous size of the paper books submitted to it.

The State Agricultural college, at Ft. Collins, Col., has purchased what is known as the "model Colorado farm," adjacent to the college grounds, to be used for practical and experimental work. The farm contains 80 acres, is connected with the Ft. Collins sewer and water mains and the price paid for it was $26,000.

The Australian and German governments both have experts in Colorado this summer, studying the irrigation systems of the state. Colorado is acknowledged to have the best irrigation systems in the world, and the ideas of her experts are eagerly sought by the countries of the old world, which have to deal with arid-land problems, in their colonies and at home.

Plans have just been completed by an eastern railroad for the introduction of a number of hospital or ambulance cars, with which to cope with the effects of collisions or other accidents. For over a year the railroad has been quietly experimenting with an ordinary car, fitted up according to the idea of scientists, who were employed by the road. The value of such an adjunct for the service has been repeatedly shown in actual operation.

The total production of gold from the mines of the world for 410 years or since there have been any records of the same kept, is officially given at $10,693,236,302. The total production of gold from the mines of the United States since its discovery is given at $2,539,503,140. Of this the Eastern and Southern states produced $32,492,648, leaving $2,507,010,492 as the amount of gold produced by the mountainous country west of the meridian of Denver.

A traveler in Siberia, a few years back, noted that among the natives along the northern coast wood, in a certain form, is a most common and constant article of diet. The natives eat it because they like it. Even when fish are plentiful it usually forms part of the evening meal, as many cleanly stripped large logs near every hut testify. These people know by experience that the fact of their eating wood arouses the sympathy of strangers.

The mountains of iron which exist in almost unlimited quantities, it is believed, will cause Mexico to become great in her manufactures of iron and steel products. One year ago the first steel rails ever produced south of the Rio Grande were rolled at the steel plant in Monterey. Structural iron of all kinds is being produced in large quantities, and it is understood that in a short time a bridge-building department will be added to the steel works.

The presence in this country of Mr J. W. Hoffman, an agent of the British government, to study the details of cotton growing, in order to facilitate the production of the staple in British West Africa, emphasizes the discontent which exists among the cotton manufacturers of the United Kingdom on account of the high prices of their raw material. They are very much in earnest in their determination not to be so absolutely dependent on the American supply.

The 1,200 cutters now on strike in New York averaged about $18 a week, and have surrendered a weekly income of at least $21,600. The 20,000 idle tailors averaged about $15 a week, and are losing $300,000 weekly. To this should be added a weekly loss of not less than $50,000 by the idle finishers, and perhaps as much more for other classes of labor not enumerated. If the strike should last two months this would reach the startling total of $8,600,000. The sum of these losses is $425,000 weekly.

FIGURES THAT ARE SAFE.

Republican Party Is Sure of Success, Even Though It Should Lose Some Northern States.

The first item for consideration by the man who wants to figure on the outcome of the presidential contest is that, this year the electoral college will consist of 476 votes, an increase of 29 votes over that of 1900, when it was 447 votes.

Therefore it will take 239 votes to elect. The states that will carry these votes and their increase are as follows:

Judge Parker will undoubtedly carry the whole solid south, and gain nine votes over Bryan. They will give him 151 certain votes. This will require him to get 88 votes more in order to be elected. The problem is where will he get them. The states the republicans feel absolutely confident of getting are as follows:

States.	Votes.
California	10
Illinois	27
Indiana	15
Iowa	13
Kansas	10
Maine	6
Massachusetts	16
Michigan	14

The states in which the democrats claim a chance to win are:

Delaware	3
Colorado	5
Connecticut	7
Idaho	3
Maryland	8
Montana	3
Nevada	3
New Jersey	12
New York	39
West Virginia	7
Wisconsin	13
Utah	3
Total	106

The republicans, therefore, start in with 219 assured votes, against 151 for the democrats. The republicans have, therefore, only 20 votes to get out of the alleged "doubtful" states, where the democrats must get 88.

Consequently, says the National Tribune, the republicans could afford to lose New York, and win by carrying two or more of the states placed in the doubtful column. Wisconsin and West Virginia would just give it to them, or New Jersey and Maryland.

On the other hand, if the democrats carry New York they will still be lacking 47 votes to make up their necessary 88 additional ones, and will have to carry, not only Maryland, but substantially all of the other states to get the required number.

A Question of Platforms.

No voter has any doubt of what a republican administration will do with respect to the maintenance of protection and sound money, the extension of internal improvements, the upbuilding of and prosperity of all lines of industry at home, the enforcement of the Monroe doctrine throughout this hemisphere and the conservation of our national prestige abroad. A reading of the democratic platform will, on the other hand, disclose such vague declarations and promises on all these points as will leave the reader utterly at a loss to understand what is the promise of the party or what could be expected if it were intrusted with the government.—San Francisco Call.

☞The American people are deeply grateful, at any rate, that Candidate Davis' first name is not Ben.—Chicago Tribune.

☞Col. Bryan says Col. Roosevelt is not a man of mush. We don't believe, however, that this will entitle Col. Bryan to the distinction of being classed as an original discoverer.—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE REPUBLIC IS SECURE.

Speaker Cannon Says Nation Has Reason to Be Proud of the Republican Party.

The little speech with which Speaker Cannon notified President Roosevelt of his nomination was a gem, and well received by the press of the country.

"Tested by experience no nation has so successfully solved all problems as our nation," said Mr. Cannon. "Under republican lead for over 40 years, the United States from a third-class power has become first.

"The people, under republican lead, wrote upon the statute books laws taxing foreign products and both replenishing our treasury and encouraging our industries.

"Under this policy our manufactured product is one-third the product of the civilized world, and our people receive almost double for their labor that received elsewhere.

"This policy affords our people a better home market than has any other people on earth. In addition, we have come to be the greatest exporting nation in the world.

"Protection has always been opposed by the opponents of the republican party, and is opposed by them to-day. Their platform is silent touching the gold standard and our currency system. Their chosen leader says that the gold standard is established, and that he will govern himself accordingly if elected.

"I wonder if it ever occurred to him that if his support of his party's candidate in 1896 and 1900 had been decisive we would now have the silver standard. I wonder what made him send that telegram after he was nominated, and why he did not send it before.

"Does he at heart believe in the gold standard, or does he try to reap where he has not sown? If he should be elected by forcing together discordant elements, I submit that there would be no harmonious action in legislation or administration, but that doubt and discontent would everywhere distress production and labor.

"Let us turn from the region of doubt and double dealing to the region of assured certainty. The republican party stands for protection, the gold standard, and our currency system.

"These being our policies, and having been most useful to the country, we love them. If it be necessary from time to time that they be strengthened and controlled the republicans stand ready to apply the proper remedy. Being our policies, we will not willingly subject them to their enemies for slow starvation or to sudden destruction."

CONTEMPTIBLE STRADDLE.

Selection of Taggart for Chairman an Indication That Democrats Cannot Win Out.

Grave problems faced the democratic national committee when it met in New York to elect its officers. With Gorman obstinately refusing to accept the chairmanship, Taggart appeared to be the only alternative, and yet he was unacceptable and almost repulsive to eastern sentiment. Nothing but the fact that both Parker and Davis were eastern men caused Thomas Taggart, of Indiana, to be elected by acclamation chairman of the national commitete.

The Chicago Chronicle observes that one trouble often leads to another, and the committee undertook to counteract the evil effect of Mr. Taggart's election by the tacit agreement that William F. Sheehan, of New York, should be chairman of the executive committee. The result was one of those straddles for which the democratic party is famous, and the example for which was set by the St. Louis convention when it adopted a western platform and then proceeded to nominate an eastern ticket.

Worse than the straddle, even, is the conspicuously low standing of these officers. If the committee, the party and the election prospects are to be judged by these officers what are we to expect when the mantles of William H. Barnum, Abram S. Hewitt, Daniel Manning, William C. Whitney and W. F. Harrity fall on the shoulders of men like Thomas Taggart and William F. Sheehan?

It is no wonder that it is reported that many of the members of the committee looked as if they realized that the democrats were beaten already.

TRUTHS TERSELY TOLD.

☞Judge Parker thinks he can depend on nearly all of his party friends, but what he desires most is to hear of a few new ones who might help him to pluck the rose of certain success from the nettle of assured defeat. —Baltimore American.

☞The republican party asks for a continuance in power because of what it has done; the democratic party seeks power on plea that it has recanted its errors. The republican party goes into the campaign proud of its past; the democratic party seeks to hide its record. The republican campaign cry is: "Remember;" the democratic: "Forget."—Cincinnati Times-Star.

☞Tom Taggart, chairman of the democratic national committee, is another example of what republican prosperity will do for a man. He used to be a "sandwich" man, carrying ads. on his back.—Topeka Capitol.

☞The democratic party no longer exists. The disreputable party which has stolen its name and is using it for base purposes must necessarily be abandoned by every respectable citizen who perceives its true character and is not deceived by a name and by memories of the excellent things to which it was once applied.—Chicago Chronicle.

NOTIFICATION CEREMONY.

IT TOOK PLACE AT JUDGE PARKER'S HOME.

CLARK MADE NOTIFICATION SPEECH

Judge Parker Says that if Elected President He Shall Not be a Candidate for Renomination.

Esopus, N. Y., Aug. 11.—Judge Alton B. Parker yesterday received formal notification of his nomination for the presidency of the United States as the candidate of the democratic party and in accepting gave public expression for the first time of his views on the issues of the campaign.

The notification was brought to him by Representative Champ Clark, of Missouri, as chairman of a committee representing every state and territory in the Union. Mr. Clark in a brief speech informed the candidate of his nomination and presented to him a formal communication signed by the committee.

Standing bareheaded, during a brief lull in the rain storm which had lasted since soon after daylight, Judge Parker accepted the nomination and set forth his views in a speech that evoked frequent applause.

The ceremony was held on the lawn at Rosemount, under the trees at the north of the house and was attended by upwards of 600 people, the larger number of whom came from New York City with the notification committee on the steamer Sagamore. The company included many democrats of national prominence, as well as a large and representative delegation from Tammany Hall.

There would have been a gala day gathering from Kingston and vicinity, where perhaps the judge is best known, but the rain had been so heavy and continuous that few local people came forth.

It was at first decided to hold the ceremonies on the Sagamore, owing to the storm, but the protest of those who wanted Judge Parker notified at his own house was so vigorous that at the last moment the little platform erected on the Parker lawn was hastily decorated with flags and the ceremonies were held there according to the original plan.

During most of the time occupied by Champ Clark's speech the rain was falling in a sturdy drizzle, but it stopped entirely just as Judge Parker began his address and held off until he finished.

It is long years since Judge Parker has been heard in a political speech and to most of his hearers he was absolutely new in this capacity. They heard him with a keen interest, not unmixed with curiosity. The address was delivered in the clearest tones, in a voice seldom raised above the conversational pitch, but perfectly audible, nevertheless. His enunciation was distinct and his delivery exceedingly deliberate. He used few gestures, making his emphasis almost entirely with his voice. He adhered to the text of his written address, with the wording of which he appeared perfectly familiar, though he held a copy in his hand and followed it somewhat closely with his eye while speaking.

Champ Clark spoke as follows: "Judge Parker: The most momentous political performance known among men is the quadrennial election of an American president. The supreme executive power of 80,000,000 free people changes hands with simplest ceremony and most perfect order.

"All history proves that a government bottomed on popular suffrage is a government by party. Experience shows that he serves his party best who serves his country best. Out of the strong debates and profound deliberations of the St. Louis convention emerged a reunited party, which goes forth to conquer.

"Every phase of democratic opinion was represented and advocated by brave, honest and able champions in that great conclave of free and patriotic men.

"No effort was made to gag or bridle any one. Out of it all there grew such unity as encourages lovers of liberty and of pure government everywhere.

"To serve the whole American people without discrimination, faithfully and well; to distribute the benefits of the federal government impartially to all our citizens; to lighten the burdens of government by reducing taxation to the minimum and by rigid economy in the public service; to administer the powers conferred by the constitution justly, wisely, fearlessly, vigorously and patriotically, without diminution or usurpation; to maintain freedom of thought, freedom of speech and freedom of the press; to promote the sacred cause of human freedom everywhere by the wholesomeness of our example; to vindicate and glorify the theory and the practice of representative government; to secure its blessings to our posterity for all time—these always have been, are, and forever must be the aims and purposes of democrats.

"The hope is not too extravagant for entertainment that in this campaign our candidates will have the support not only of every democrat in the land, but also of every voter who believes that the constitution of the United States is a living reality and that it is binding equally on high and low, great and small, public official and private citizen.

"Your long and conspicuous career as a jurist in one of the highest courts in the world—the period which you have spent in expounding constitutions and statutes—causes your countrymen to believe that into that more exalted position to which they are about to call you, you will carry with you that profound respect for the constitution and the law which with you has become a confirmed mental habit and upon which depends the perpetuity of our system of government. To preserve in its integrity and its full vigor this system which was bought with a great price, is the grand mission of the democratic party whose head you have become.

"May the nomination find fruition in election. May the God of our fathers guide, protect and bless you both as a candidate and as the chief magistrate of the republic."

In response Judge Parker said:

"I have resigned the office of chief judge of the court of appeals that I may accept the responsibility put upon me.

"If we would have our government continue during the ages to come for the benefit of those who shall succeed us, we must ever be on our guard against the danger of usurpation of that authority which resides in the whole people, whether the usurpation be by officials representing one of the great departments of government, or by a body of men acting without a commission from the people.

"In a struggle between employers and employes, dynamite is said to have been used by the latter, resulting in the loss of life and the destruction of property. The perpetrators should, after due trial and conviction, have had meted out to them the most rigorous punishment known to the law. This crime, added, perhaps to others, led to the formation of a committee of citizens that, with the support of the military authority, deports from the state, without trial, persons suspected of belonging to the organization of which the perpetrators of the dynamite outrages were supposed to be members. These illustrations present some evidence of the failure of government to protect the citizen and his property, which not only justified the action of your convention in this regard, but made it its duty to call attention to the fact that constitutional guarantees are violated whenever any citizen is denied the right to labor, to acquire and to enjoy property, or to reside where his interests or inclination may determine; and the fulfillment of the assurance to rebuke and punish all denials of these rights, should be enforced by every official and supported by every citizen.

"The present tariff law is unjust in its operation, excessive in many of its rates and so framed in particular instances as to exact inordinate profits from the people. We cannot hope to secure a majority in the senate during the next four years, and while we are unable to give assurances of relief, we should state our position to be in favor of a reasonable reduction of the tariff.

"The combinations, popularly called trusts, have been encouraged and stimulated by excessive tariff duties. What is needed—in addition to the passing of a statute revising the tariff duties to a reasonable basis—is officials having both the disposition and the courage to enforce existing law."

He urged that the people of the Philippines should be given their liberty and that no law should be made or enforced which would abridge the privileges of any citizen or deny equal protection to all.

"The government of the United States was organized solely for the people of the United States. While it was contemplated that this country should become a refuge for the oppressed of every land, the government was not created for a career of political or civilizing evangelization in foreign countries or among alien races.

"I accept the nomination and if the action of the convention shall be endorsed by an election by the people, I will, God helping me, give to the discharge of the duties of that exalted office the best service of which I am capable and at the end of the term retire to private life. I shall not be a candidate for, nor shall I accept a renomination. Several reasons might be advanced for this position, but the controlling one with me is that I am fully persuaded that no incumbent of that office should ever be placed in a situation of possible temptation to consider what the effect of action taken by him in an administrative matter of great importance might have upon his political fortunes."

As Judge Parker spoke his closing words the band struck up the Star Spangled Banner and from the deck of the yacht Sapphire in the river below a number of bombs were fired in salute. These bursting in the air, released parachutes from which were suspended the national colors. Later there were whistle salutes from the steamer Sagamore and August Belmont's yacht, the Scout, which brought ex-Senator Hill from Hyde Park.

After the ceremony all crowded up eagerly to shake the candidate's hand and to congratulate him upon his speech.

The reception was continued on the veranda until after 4 o'clock, when the company broke up and the visitors returned to their boats and trains.

A New Experience for Germany.

Berlin, Aug. 11.—The struggle on the Berlin boerse over the shares of the Hibernia Coal Co. is the sensation of the day here. It is a new experience for Germany to see great banks engaged in a fight to get control of an immense property, accompanied by the threats of one party to oust the old directors and elect their own men. The German market hitherto has associated such phenomena exclusively with Wall street finance. An interesting feature of the contest is that the Prussian government is the power behind the throne.

Failed to Resume.

Birmingham, Ala., Aug. 11.—Information received from the various coal mines of the five furnace companies in this district which gave notice that their mines would be opened for work yesterday to union and non-union labor alike at a scale of wages below that heretofore in effect, indicates that only a handful of men went to work. At most of the mines there was no resumption. There is talk of non-union miners being brought here to work certain mines and 16 deputy sheriffs have been ordered to go to the Warner mines of the Republic Co.

A UNITED STATES SENATOR

Used Pe-ru-na For Dyspepsia With Great Benefit.

HON. M. C. BUTLER,
Ex-United States Senator From South Carolina.

EX-U. S. Senator M. C. Butler from South Carolina, was Senator from that state for two terms. In a recent letter from Washington, D. C., he says:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine besides a good tonic."—M. C. Butler.

Peruna is not simply a remedy for dyspepsia. Peruna is a catarrh remedy. Peruna cures dyspepsia because it is generally dependent upon catarrh of the stomach.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

INDULGE IN SMOKING TEAS.

They Are a Specialty in Exclusive Female Club Circles in Germany—Active in Athletics.

The German woman of the moment is strenuous in her athletic activity. Spring and summer have called with no uncertain voice to the living, pulsating creature known as the modern woman.

Riding, golf, swimming, motoring, fencing—all these find room in the daily programme of the vigorous society girl, who in her healthful dissipation has found the sovereign remedy for ennui.

At the moment the golf links are her especial attraction. She has decided already that she shall be hatless. Hats are apt to get in the way.

They often spoil a drive, and they blow about mercilessly in the wind and—"they look like taking care of one's health, which is very bad form nowadays."

Society girls are indulging in strange crazes. Smoking teas are the order of the day in exclusive clubs, and they have even learned to appreciate the American cocktail, which is becoming immensely popular in Berlin.

Even in fashionable restaurants the sight of young ladies smoking cigarettes and drinking in full view of the public is no longer unusual.

One Answer.

Tolstoi has written a book entitled "What is Art?" One answer, remarks the Chicago Journal, is the way he manages to keep himself advertised.

OLD FASHIONED

But Still in the Fashion.

It is an ever new and interesting story to hear how one can be entirely made over by change of food.

"For two years I was troubled with what my physician said was the old fashioned dyspepsia.

"There was nothing I could eat but 20 or 30 minutes later I would be spitting my food up in quantities until I would be very faint and weak. This went on from day to day until I was terribly wasted away and without any prospects of being helped.

"One day I was advised by an old lady to try Grape-Nuts and cream, leaving off all fatty food. I had no confidence that Grape-Nuts would do all she said for me, as I had tried so many things without any help. But it was so simple I thought I would give it a trial, she insisted so.

"Well, I ate some for breakfast and pretty soon the lady called to see her 'patient,' as she called me, and asked if I had tried her advice.

"'Glad you did, child, do you feel some better?'

"'No,' I said, 'I do not know as I do, the only difference I can see is I have no sour stomach, and come to think of it, I haven't spit up your four teaspoons of Grape-Nuts yet.'

"Nor did I have any trouble with Grape-Nuts then or any other time, for this food always stays down and my stomach digests it perfectly; I soon got strong and well again and bless that old lady every time I see her.

"Once an invalid of 98 pounds I now weigh 125 pounds and feel strong and well, and it is due entirely and only to having found the proper food in Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

BUTCHERS' STRIKE SITUATION.

MUCH DISORDER ATTENDS THE GREAT STRUGGLE.

Hungry Strikers Fought for Food—Mayor Harrison Will be Asked to Help Settle the Strike.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—A riot in crowded Fifth avenue, within a square of the city hall, and recalling the teamsters' strike two years ago, when missiles were hurled from the windows of office buildings, capped the climax of disorder in the strike yesterday. During the day half a dozen men were hurt in various encounters and shots were fired during an attack on a train load of strike breakers. All told, the day's violence was more widespread than in any previous day of the strike.

Even President Golden, of the Teamsters' union, was attacked while trying to rescue Max Falk, a union teamster, who was driving a wagon loaded with meat. Four hundred persons had pursued Falk, not knowing he was a unionist, and were attacking him when Golden appeared. When Folk produced a union button Golden mounted the wagon, took the reins and urged back the mob. Stones and sticks were showered at Golden and Falk before Golden, who suffered many injuries, was recognized.

The opening of a commissary station for the strikers drew so large a crowd that union officials found themselves unable to cope with the situation. Crowding and pushing to attain advantageous position in the waiting line resulted in fighting and it was feared the building would be wrecked by the hungry throng. When this danger became apparent and the labor officials found themselves helpless, a committee was sent to the nearest police station to request a police detail of two men to preserve order and prevent women and children from being trampled on. The request was denied, it being declared there were no available officers to send out.

Seventy skilled butchers who struck here are reported to have returned to their former employers, Schwartzchild & Sulzberger. The 70 are said to have been sent to New York to take the places of strikers in the firm's plant there. Other alleged desertions of the union cause during the past 24 hours are claimed to aggregate 319 men, all skilled butchers.

Mayor Harrison will be asked to-day to do what he can toward settling the stock yards strike.

New York, Aug. 13.—Assaults upon non-union meat wagon drivers became general Friday afternoon and several men were roughly handled, despite the efforts of the police guard assigned to every team. That the sympathy of the teamsters employed by independent packers who were not affected by the strike order was with the strikers was evident on several occasions.

A non-union driver was badly beaten by a crowd of alleged strikers near the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger plant and after he was rescued by the police he quit his job and went home under police escort.

Lightning Killed Two People.

New York, Aug. 11.—During a thunder storm in this city and vicinity yesterday William Hagen, 27 years old, was killed by lightning while driving a truck in Brooklyn. An unidentified boy is also said to have been killed by lightning in Brownsville. Several buildings were struck, among them St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church in Hoboken, N. J. In Brooklyn lightning struck the trolley pole of a Rockaway avenue surface car and set fire to the car, in which there were 25 or 30 passengers. All the passengers were stunned for a moment, but recovered in time to leave the car before anyone was seriously burned.

Our Dealings with Turkey.

Washington, Aug. 13.—While it is difficult to secure any details of Minister Leishman's last communication and of the response of the state department, it is gathered that the minister has informed the state department of the terms of the proposition advanced to him Thursday by the Turkish officials; that these appeared to the state department to be satisfactory and in line with what it has demanded. The American squadron consisting of the Olympia, Baltimore and Cleveland arrived at Smyrna yesterday.

Grand Circuit Races.

New York, Aug. 12.—After a day's delay on account of rain the grand circuit races were resumed at the Empire City track yesterday. The big stake of the day was the $10,000 Knickerbocker for 2:14 trotters. Only six came to the post. Sweet Marie, the favorite, won. In the 2:12 trot, a dash of one and an eighth miles, Stanley Dillon, the winner of the $10,000 M. & M. stake at Detroit, was the favorite and won. Louvain won the 2:21 trot and Dorces H. the 2:25 pace.

A Crop Bulletin.

Washington, Aug. 11.—The monthly report of the department of agriculture shows the condition of corn on August 1 to have been 87.3, as compared with 86.4 last month, and a ten-year August average of 83.5. Preliminary returns indicate a winter wheat crop of about 333,400,000 bushels, or an average of 12.3 bushels per acre.

Is Wanted for a Diamond Robbery.

Chicago, Aug. 13.—Arrested four days ago as a suspect in the holdup of the Diamond Special on the Illinois Central railway near Harvey, James Wilson, who could not be connected with the train robbery, has been identified as a man wanted at Beaver Falls, Pa., for the theft of $5,000 worth of jewelry which he is alleged to have stolen from the residence of James Piper, a Beaver Falls merchant. The jewelry consisted principally of diamond rings and was stolen last March. Wilson was taken to Pennsylvania last night.

IS FULL OF DANGER.

Bad Situation Is Created by the Seizure of Russian Boat.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The report of the capture by Japanese torpedo boat destroyers of the Russian destroyer Ryeshitelni in the harbor of Che Foo as conveyed to Washington by Consul General Fowler's cablegram from Che Foo was received here with the deepest interest and concern, for it was realized that there were in this incident the germs of serious international trouble.

If the expedition was a genuine cutting out one, there is no question in the minds of the officials here that the Japanese have committed an offense against international law by violating Chinese neutrality, and in addition have broken the agreement they entered into at the beginning of the war, at the instance of the United States government, to limit the field of warlike operations to Manchuria and Korea and their waters. Should this prove to be the case, the results probably will be grave and vexatious. Under international law the captured vessel must be returned to the custody of the Chinese government and an apology rendered for the offense against Chinese neutrality.

But if Russian lives have been lost, as reported in the press dispatches, a greater complication will follow, for Russia may in turn hold China responsible for the punishment of the Japanese who caused the death of her sailors when under the shelter of the Chinese port authorities. Altogether the situation is full of danger and the main apprehension of the officials here is that it may be the incident that will break down the agreement of the powers and plunge China into a war as a full-fledged belligerent and ally of Japan.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—Russia has formally protested to Japan, through France, against the action of the Japanese torpedo boat destroyers in attacking the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni at Che Foo and the protest has been communicated to the powers.

BUSINESS BULLETIN.

A Moderate Improvement Is Noted—Agricultural Prospects are Very Bright.

New York, Aug. 13.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Moderate improvement in midsummer means more than an equivalent increase at any other season, and the better trade reported during the past week is consequently most encouraging. Dispatches from all parts of the country are by no means uniform, in some cases the outlook showing no change, while at a few points there have been setbacks; but on the whole, the progress is unmistakable. Two labor controversies are particularly harmful, but others have been settled; the Fall River strike is partially broken and several threatened difficulties have been averted.

Despite some injury to spring wheat the agricultural prospect is very bright, while higher prices promise to neutralize the effect of such loss in quantity as occurred. Interior buyers have placed liberal fall orders in the leading dry goods markets, and confidence in a large spring trade is becoming general. The approaching presidential election is viewed with more equanimity than any other contest of recent years.

Failures this week were 222 in the United States, against 174 last year, and 33 in Canada, compared with 22 a year ago.

Declared the Rates to be Exorbitant.

Washington, Aug. 13.—The interstate commerce commission yesterday announced its decision regarding the fruit transportation and refrigeration charges from points on the Pere Marquette and Michigan Central railroads, involving the refrigeration charges exacted generally by the Armour car lines and declared the rates to be exorbitant and in violation of the interstate commerce laws. Further action by the commission is withheld to allow the readjustment of the rates by the railroad and car line companies.

Will Run Open Shops.

Pittsburg, Aug. 13.—The Macbeth-Evans Glass Co., probably the largest manufacturers of lamp chimneys in the country, and employing 4,000 men, announce that their plants will be run on an "open shop" basis beginning next week. The company has works at Pittsburg and Charleroi, Pa.; Elwood and Marion, Ind. The reason given by the company for its severence of relations with the Flint Glass Workers' union is that the workers' terms are unreasonable.

Will Follow McKinley's Example.

New York, Aug. 13.—Chairman Cortelyou said yesterday that President Roosevelt would not make any political speeches this year, setting at rest many rumors to that effect which have been in circulation. Beyond the speech to the notification committee and the letter of acceptance which is yet to be published, the president will not take any public part in the campaign. This is in line with the course pursued by President McKinley in 1900.

An Heir to Russia's Throne Is Born.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 13.—A son and heir to the Russian throne was born yesterday. The empress and the child are doing well. The boy will be named Alexis.

An Accident on a Bridge.

New York, Aug. 13.—The northbound express of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad yesterday loosened the blocking under a 35-ton truss of the new bridge over the railroad tracks at Two Hundred and Fourth street and Bronx Park and the truss turned over, precipitating three other trusses and a 20-ton girder into the railroad cut. The last car of the express was about 300 feet beyond the bridge when the trusses fell. Five men were working on the truss that turned over and three of them fell, two of whom were seriously injured.

PARKER'S SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE.

Aside from the mere fact of its having been delivered, so marking a formal step in the campaign, there is little of striking significance in Judge Parker's speech of acceptance. It is so lacking in positive significance that the New York Sun, which of late has been disposed to favor Judge Parker's election, now announces its intention to support Roosevelt and Fairbanks. We do uot however agree with the Sun in characterizing Judge Parker's speech as cowardly, neither do we regard it as the utterance of a political trimmer. This speech does not belie the impression which we had formed of Judge Parker as being a man of courage and of intelligent and honest conviction. His speech reveals him as a man eminently judicial, conservative, deliberate. A jurist, trained to look carefully into the merits of both sides of a case, it is foreign to his habit of mind to ignore the qualifications and exceptions which must attend the statement of general principles. The man of this habit of mind must, however, always expect to be charged with weakness and cowardice.

In temperament and in underlying principle Judge Parker is a typical conservative Democrat. Ever since the adoption of the Constitution there have been strict and loose constructionists. Judge Parker in his speech presents himself as a fair and honest representative of the strict construction type. The New York Sun is disgusted because he did not explicitly repudiate and attack Bryanism, but it is only fair to recognize that the whole spirit and mode of thought of the speech is the very antithesis of Bryanism.

While it is plain that Judge Parker is in fundamental principle a strict constructionist and while in a general way he would like to see the government administered in accordance with that principle, he finds himself confronted with a difficult and embarrassing task when he undertakes to arraign the Republican policies and administration and particularly when he comes to outline a specific Democratic program. It is very easy to indulge in generalities regarding the constitutional restraints of the various departments of government and to talk about executive usurpation, but we have yet to hear from Judge Parker or from any other reliable Democratic source, a specific enumeration of the acts of usurpation alleged to have been committed by President Roosevelt or by his predecessor. When such a bill of specifications shall be submitted, we shall have ready one as long against the administration of President Cleveland.

Judge Parker's views upon the tariff are not likely to awaken much practical hope or apprehension as the case may be. He believes in the tariff and in tariff reform, but holds out no hope that it would be or could be reformed during his administration, should he be elected.

With regard to the trusts he finds it difficult to apply his fundamental Democratic principles. In common with the Democratic platform he regards the trusts as dangerous combinations, but he seems to think the chief remedy against them must lie in modifying the tariff laws which it is alleged foster them. Such a remedy will not alarm the trusts after what he says about the prospect for tariff changes. He also has faith in the efficacy of the enforcement of the existing laws against monopoly, and holds the executive responsible for failure to enforce these laws. It is the executive and not the judicial branch of the government that is at fault in the matter, he says. Yet the country will not forget that it was President Roosevelt and Attorney-General Knox who instituted the proceedings in the Northern Securities case while it was the three Democratic justices on the Supreme Court who decided adversely to the administration. The truth of the matter is that the trusts have less to fear from Parker's attitude than they have from Roosevelt's. The fact that Judge Parker deprecates the enactment of farther anti-monopoly legislation shows this.

Judge Parker's views regarding our duty in the Philippines do not warrant him in condemning the course pursued there by the Republican administration. He recognizes that we have a duty there, and that we should be recreant to it should we at this stage abandon the Islands to themselves. He recognizes that the inhabitants are not yet fit for self-government, but emphasizes the importance of so preparing them for self-government that we may grant them their independence at the earliest possible date. Any one who has read Governor Taft's testimony knows that the control of the Philippines has been exercised by our country for no other purpose than to develope in the Filipinos a capacity for self-government. The Philippine Islands are not being exploited for the benefit of Americans. But to fit the Filipinos for self-government is not the work of a day or a year, and it is too soon now to say whether their future destiny shall be one of absolute independence or not.

It does not appear from Judge Parker's speech that there is any real reason for a change of administration.

FOR SALE—A good 22 calibre Stevens Rifle, with Lyman sights, and in good condition. Inquire at PRESS Office.

Free trade looks to the moment, and never to the morrow. It does not produce interest, but lives on the principle.

It is a fact that the greatest reductions in prices of manufactured goods have been in those products in which the tariff has been the highset and the longest.

Free trade brings the machine, protection the machinist. Given the men we can not lack the machines; having the art we shall not want for the article. Possessing the producer, we shall not lack the product.

The present attitude of the Democratic party toward the Philippines recalls the fact that a few years ago they talked about Hawaii in very much the same way.

The Boston anti-imperialists may imagine that after reading the Democratic platform, the Filipinos are ready for independence, forgetting that independence may be too dearly bought.

"What is the constitution, as between friends?" once asked a Tammany Congressman of the late Speaker Reed. "What is the use of a declaratation on money, as between Democrats?" asked the recent Democratic convention. Surely, what is the use? The country knows that the Democratic party, as a party, is still against the gold standard.

BRYAN'S VIEW OF NOMINATION.

"I have nothing to take back, I have nothing to withdraw of the things that I have said against the methods pursued to advance his candidacy. It was a plain and deliberate attewpt to deceive the party. The New York platform was vague and purposely so, because the advocates of Judge Parker were trying to secure votes from among the people who would have opposed his views had they known them. * * * The nomination was secured, therefore, by crooked and indefensible methods." —William Jennings Bryan, in The Commoner," July 13, 1904.

Discovery Concerning Rheumatism.

It is now known positively that rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. The only possible way to get this poison away is to get this poison out of the blood is to treat the kidneys, as when they are diseased or not acting properly, the uric acid passes from the kidneys into the blood. Thompson's Barosma or Kidney Cure acts quickly, taking up the uric acid, curing the kidneys and restoring them to their normal functions. Thompson's Barosma is pleasant to take. For sale by R. C. Will be Kept on the Run.

Some of our Democratic contemporaries are bothering themselves a great deal because they do not see any prospect that the Republican canvass in Pennsylvania will get attention from the national committee of the party. Let them not be concerned, they will have more important things to bother about before the campaign is over, says Philadelphia Press.

Pennsylvania of all the States is the the one that can be safely placed at the opening of the campaign. It can be depended upon. For forty years the Republican party has not entered upon a presidental canvass with any real doubt about where Pennsylvania would be found. It has always been able to take care of itself and help in other States when requirrd. The party is as united and earnest and enthusiastic this year as it ever was in any campaign, and the State is very certain to give Roosevelt and Fairbanks one of those immense majorities that have distinguished its elections for the past ten years.

Our Democratic opponents are much mistaken if they suppose the canvass in Pennsylvania is not to be an active and wideawake one. Though 30,000 majority would be enough to carry the electors, it is desirable to have ten times that for the number of congressional districts it will take along. That will be the point of the contest in Pennsylvania, and it will be lively enough to satisfy all the appetite our Democratic contemporaries may have for a fight. If their party does not lose one and possibly two of the congressional districts they now have it will not be for want of an active campaign.

There never was a time when the Republican organization in Pennsylvania was in better shape, not only for general work, but to turn its attention to those districts where special effort may be desirable. Every Republican understands fully that while the electoral vote is entirely safe, it is important to contribute to the general result every Republican Congressman possible. The only fight in Pennsylvania, therefore, will be in the close districts. The Democrats themselves will make no other, and they have no very efficient organization even for that.

Within a few days the Republican State headquarters will be opened in this city and the work will begin. Our Democratic contemporaries will have no occasion to complain of lack of life and spirit in the canvass. We assure them their party will be kept on the run.

Tariff Hand Book.

Inasmuch as it is settled that the Tariff is to be the predominant issue in the Presidential campaign of 1904, the Tariff Hand Book, issued by the American Protective Tariff League, becomes of special value. An equal amount of matter relating to the Tariff in its various phases has never been incorporated between the cover of and single volume. There is no question that the Free-Trader can possibly raise which is not answered in this handy book of ninety six pages. Every fact bearing upon the Tariff and its relation to national and individual prosperity is herein to be found. Statistics covering almost every field of industrial, commercial and business activity are here presented in well ordered form, all of them authentic, official and indisputable. As an aid to writers and speakers in the current campaign, as well as to students desirous of informing themselves regarding economic facts and conclusions, the Tariff Hand Book will be found indispensable. Price, 25 cents. American Protective Tariff League, 339 Broadway, New York, N. Y.

City of Contradictions.

Lassa is a city of magnificent buildings, where the streets are never repaired and, except for a slight cleaning in January and March of the Tibetan calendar, are dreadfully dirty. Everywhere people are laden with rich ornaments, but unwashed as Caverley's organ grinder. A vast Buddhist temple stands in the center of the city, and it is encircled by a street lined with shops and roadside venders. Both men and women are enthusiastic traders, and especially striking is the sight of Buddhist priests selling divers merchandise at roadside stalls, with the sleeves of their clerical robes rolled high up their arms.—London Globe.

Letter to R. Seger & Son.
Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sirs. Clothing is just like paint. It fits or it don't; it wears or it don't; turns weather and water or not, and goes out of fashion.

What do we wear clothes for? Did you ever think of it? Different persons have different reasons, no doubt, but one paints Devoe for beauty, to be in the fashion, and keep out water.

Fashion says paint, we all paint. There is beauty in paint; we paint a good deal for that. And buildings are costly and fashionable; put on a waterproof two or three coats of paint, and your buildings last as long as you keep them dry. It costs nothing to paint; it costs your buildings not to.

Devoe is the paint that lasts; disappointing paints are the paints that cost,

Yours truly,

UNDERTAKING

"GIDDAP, PETE!"

They's a man 'at drives a team
  Down by our house ev'ry day
Haulin' stones so big it seems
  Like you can't guess what they weigh.
An' this man 'at drives 'em, he
  Hollers while he goes down street
Where it's rough as rough can be—
  He ist hollers: "Giddap, Pete!"

"Giddap, Pete!" 'At's all he says,
  Nen he gives his whip a crack
An' th' horse name' Pete obeys,
  Other horse's name is Jack,
'Cause one time he stop to rest
  An' he clumb down off th' seat
An' I ast. He says: "Pete's best.
  That one's Jack. Well, giddap, Pete!"

But th' horse name' Pete, why he
  Pulls th' mostest, anyhow,
An' it's hard for me to see
  Why th' man makes such a row
Hollerin' at him like that;
  Jack don't hardly move his feet
An' he's lazy, too, an' fat—
  But th' man yells: "Giddap, Pete!"

My pa laugh when I ast why
  'At man yells at Pete, an' nen
Says: "You'll find out by an' by
  Horses is a lot like men—
Those 'at can 's th' ones 'at's got
  To pull on th' lazy chaps.
He might yell 'Jack!' but he'll not,
  'Cause he knows 'at Pete giddaps!"

The Delinquent

By FRANK H. SWEET

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

"YOU will remain in and study the lesson two hours," said the white-haired schoolmaster, grimly. "If you do not get it in that time I shall punish you, as I would any of the other boys. I shall make no exception."

The "boy" was a stalwart, finely-formed man of 30, with clear eyes and good-natured face. There was a humorous appreciation of the situation in his eyes as he raised them to the old man, who was scarcely more than half his own weight. But all he said was, "That's right, schoolmaster; you musn't show partiality. But I've done the best I could."

The schoolmaster regarded him for some moments with unqualified disapproval, then turned and walked toward his desk. But half way there he paused suddenly, a cloud coming to his face. After a little hesitation he returned to the man.

"I do not want to fail in my duty to any of the boys, Calvin Hepstead," he said, "and if I have misjudged you in any way, in jot or tittle, I wish to rectify it. You have been with me three months now, and have learned the letters and a few figures. But there you suddenly stop, through obstinacy or indifference or inability, I do not know which, though I judge the former. Since the Indian summer brought you something three days ago you have done little but look through the window. I never expel any of my scholars; I prefer to punish. Sometimes that measure succeeds where others fail. Can you advance any reason whatever, Calvin Hepstead, why you should not be punished?"

"None whatever, Mr. Peters," the man answered, quietly. "I've succeeded in about every undertakin' I've tried, an' some of 'em were pretty big ones. If I don't learn the lesson I should be punished, of course."

The schoolmaster looked at the strong, self-contained face with something very like wistfulness mingling with the disapproval of his eyes.

"Yes, it is obstinacy," he said at last slowly, more to himself than the other. "Any one can learn if he tries. A failure to do so should be corrected."

He went to his desk and examined exercises for half an hour, then walked back and forth across the small room, finally stopping again beside Hepstead. "I am going out to supper now, but will be back in an hour and hear your lesson," he said.

The man nodded without looking up from a slate which lay on the desk before him. He was trying to form figures from a copy across the top of the slate, and to combine them in a simple sum of addition; but the great fingers were better fitted for the stock of a rifle or the helve of an axe or a paddle handle than for a slate pencil, and the brain behind the wrinkling brows, which was keen to read the mysteries and wiles of primitive nature, grew dull and vacuous before a problem that would have been easy for an ordinary boy of seven. Presently the fixed stare left the slate and went to the window and beyond to the great forest, whose edge showed in the distance, and then the eyes began to warm and glow. When Mr. Peters' steps were heard returning the slate was pushed aside quietly and the man's arms were folded across his chest. The schoolmaster's inquiring look was answered by one of absolute content.

"So you have done it," the schoolmaster said, with an accent of relief in his voice. The affirmation seemed plain in the man's eyes.

"No, sir, I ain't done it."

"What!" The relief became surprise, and the surprise wrath. "Not done it, and sitting there looking through the window. Come to my desk, sir!"

Hepstead followed him smilingly. The schoolmaster selected the heaviest of his rulers.

"Hold out your hand."

Hepstead did so, and the ruler descended upon its palm with all the force of the old man's arm, making a long, livid line upon which the skin began to rise. A half dozen more lines rained alongside it in quick succession, and then the ruler fell as though the punishment were over. But Hepstead was still smiling.

"Hold out your other hand," ordered the schoolmaster, grimly. Then, as the man complied and that hand was also crossed with livid lines, "Now, go. To-morrow we will commence over again."

"We'll say good-by to-night, schoolmaster," Hepstead answered. "I'm goin' away—back into my woods."

There was no anger in the voice, no trace of resentment—nothing, indeed, but friendliness and exultation. The schoolmaster stared.

"Why did you submit to this punishment, then?" he demanded.

"Oh, it was comin' to me, I guess. I didn't learn the lesson, an' I don't want any partiality. I always give what I owe an' take what's due me. Ye may tell the boys good-by to-morrow, an' say I'd liked to have seen more of 'em. Generally I've been kept in recesses an' at noon an' night, so we ain't had much chance to git acquainted. Likely I shall never be out this way any more."

"And you are going away," said the schoolmaster, with strong condemnation in his voice. "I have not had much faith in you, Calvin Hepstead, but I thought better than this. You came here for an education, and have been with me only three months. I have never had a scholar quite so weak as you, and," throwing out his hands with a sudden gesture of renunciation, "I do not wish to remember that you have been with me. My life is teaching, and I do not like failures. Now you may go."

"I want a few words with ye, first," insisted Hepstead. "We musn't part in misunderstandin'."

"I do not wish to hear. Go!"

He was turning away when Hepstead caught him suddenly in his arms, as he might a child, and then seated himself upon a chair with the wrathful schoolmaster struggling upon his knees.

"Easy, easy, Mr. Peters," he said, soothingly. "I jest want to say a few words an' then ye can go. Mebbe ye did git a little ahead in that lickin' an' this'll sort o' even up. Now ye say I'm the weakest scholar ye're ever had, an' I guess likely ye're right. But it's this way. You've been brung up in learnin', an' I've heered say your pa an' grandpa was schoolmasters. Letters an' figgers are mixed up thick in your blood. With me it's dif'runt. My pa an' grandpa didn't know their letters, like me. We belonged to the woods."

"Why didn't you stay there?" snapped the schoolmaster, still struggling to release himself.

"Well, ye see I'd done some good-sized things that brought me friends an' a pretty big pile o' money, an' I s'pose I got to feelin' mighty friendly toward myself. When my friends said the only thing I needed was education, an' kept on sayin' it, I got to thinkin' mebbe they was right, an' come here."

"H'm!" The schoolmaster ceased to struggle against the impossible and sat quietly upon the knee. "And now you are going back to show your friends that they were mistaken in their good opinion."

Hepstead laughed with the gleefulness of a boy at the approaching holiday.

"No," he answered. "I've jest thought some more an' found 't would be a mistake to keep on makin' a mistake. I'm meant for the woods. I've done good work there, an' can do more, an' it's a strong, hearty life. I could study an' git an education, I know, for I've never yet set out for a thing that I didn't git; but 't would take the best part o' my life. I'm slow at such things, an' would have to dig out every letter an' figger with a pickaxe, one at a time. An' in the end would it be wuth the trouble? All my int'rust is back yonder in the woods, an' we don't need much learnin' there. Then I've got this."

He allowed one hand to slip down over the schoolmaster's shoulder until it reached the other hand, which had drawn a small package from his pocket. This was carefully untied and opened and then held before the schoolmaster's face.

"Know what 't is?" he asked.

"Why, I think—yes, it is a faded rose bud, a wild variety that grows among the rocks."

"That's right," with a rapturous chuckle. "The Indian summer brought it. There's a girl back where I come from, the prettiest an' best one in all the world, but she's like me in not knowin' a letter or figger. When I come here she bid me Godspeed, for even though she believed the learnin' would draw me away from her, she thought 't would be for my good. That rose bud was picked at our first understandin', an' her sendin' it means she ain't so strong as she thought an' can't give me up; an' I, schoolmaster," with a sudden boyish laugh that shook his huge frame, "made up my mind ten days ago that I was payin' too big a price for the learnin'. I'm goin' back to her, straight. That's all. Now ye can go. I only wanted ye to understand the reason. Mebbe there's been a girl somewhere an' at some time that you used to know."

He released the prisoner and rose to his full height, stretching himself finally from the thralldom of the schoolroom. The schoolmaster stood for a moment gazing at the floor. Then he held out his hand.

"I wish you well, Hepstead," he said, in a low voice. "It may be you are right."

The Ruling Powers.

For love men labor and are wise,
  For love men have been won from crime;
For love men have the wish to rise,
  For love men have become sublime.

But who has ever gained esteem
  Or won a place among the great,
Or added to the world a gleam
  Of loveliness because of hate?
—S. E. Kiser, in Chicago Record-Herald.

At the Ascot races King Edward wore a blue frock coat, a purple tie, white gaiters and a red flower. If he had only carried a wrist bag he would have matched Harry Lehr's record for freakish attire.

Short Telegrams FROM THE Theater of War

RUSSIAN FORCES WITHDRAWN.

Tokio, Aug. 11.—The Russian fleet emerged from Port Arthur Wednesday and a severe engagement with the Japanese fleet, lasting all day, followed. The Japanese destroyers attacked the Russians at night. The results of the engagements are unknown.

Che Foo, Aug. 11.—A Russian torpedo boat destroyer entered Che Foo harbor this morning and reported that six Russian battleships, four cruisers and half of the torpedo boats escaped from Port Arthur Tuesday morning. The torpedo boat destroyer left Port Arthur Wednesday night, bringing in five passengers who stated that the Japanese fleet is pursuing the Russians and that a battle on the open sea is expected.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 11.—Again the chance of a decisive battle between Gen. Kuropatkin's forces and the Japanese armies seems to be disappearing. According to a statement issued by the general staff last night, rains are again falling over a wide area in Manchuria, with the prospect of impeding operations, but even more important is the information reaching the Associated Press from an exceptional source that the Japanese once more have delayed too long.

Gen. Kuropatkin has now withdrawn the bulk of his army safely north of Liao Yang, leaving only a strong rear guard line southeast of Liao Yang to contest the advance when it comes.

London, Aug. 11.—The Tien Tsin correspondent of the Standard says says that 3,000 Chinese bandits attacked the Russian camp in the Tieh pass on August 2. The Russians were taken unawares and had many killed. They also lost a quantity of ammunition and supplies.

JAPS CAPTURED A BOAT.

Che Foo, Aug. 12.—The Russian cruisers Askold and Novik and one torpedo boat destroyer entered Kiau Chau bay Thursday night and exchanged salutes with German vessels.

The torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni had been dismantled by the removal of the breeches of her guns.

A boarding party from two Japanese torpedo destroyers boarded the dismantled Russian torpedo boat destroyer Ryeshitelni this morning at 3:30 o'clock. The Japanese discharged their small arms and during the firing a Russian was wounded in one of his legs. Daybreak showed a third Japanese destroyer towing the Ryeshitelni out of the harbor and all disappeared. The Japanese consul claims that the Japanese ships were ignorant of the dismantling of the Ryeshitelni. An Associated Press representative, however, informed the Japanese naval officers of the fact when he visited the two Japanese destroyers.

It is reported that the Japanese cruiser Kasagi was sunk off Round Island in the recent engagement.

Takushan Mountain, near Port Arthur, which was taken by the Japanese Monday night, was recaptured by the Russians the next day.

Advices from the fortress say that the Japanese bombarded the town, placing their batteries in dense kaolin fields, where they were effectually masked. The shells dropped mainly in the western basin, where the squadron was anchored. Many of the shells fell upon the battleship Retvizan, but no serious damage was done either to the town or the fleet. Later the forts got the range of the Japanese field batteries and drove them out from their shelter in the kaolin.

RUSSIANS SHIPS SCATTERED.

Dispatches from various points indicate that the attempt of the Russian Port Arthur squadron to reach Vladivostok failed and that the vessels have become widely scattered. One torpedo boat destroyer put into Che Foo, where she was boarded and captured by the Japanese. The battleship Czarevitch, the cruiser Novik and a torpedo boat have arrived at Tsingchou, at the entrance of Kiao Chou bay, the German concession on the southern shore of the Shantung peninsula.

Another Russian cruiser and a torpedo boat destroyer are reported as near Shanghai and four battleships are off the Saddle Islands, about 20 miles southeast of that port. Che Foo reports say that one Russian torpedo boat was captured off the Chinese coast and Tokio hears that a number of the vessels of the squadron have returned to Port Arthur.

The German foreign office has given instructions that the uninjured Russian warships at Tsingchou must leave port within 24 hours.

Shanghai, Aug. 13.—The Russian cruiser Askold arrived at Woosung yesterday with her fifth funnel gone close to the deck, all the funnels riddled with shell holes, one gun on the port side dismounted and several large shell holes above the water line. One lieutenant and 11 men had been killed and 50 men wounded.

London, Aug. 13.—According to the correspondent of the Morning Post at Shanghai, the Russian torpedo boat destroyer Grosovoy has reached there.

An Expensive Legal Document.

St. Louis. Aug. 12.—A transcript containing 1,684,300 words and costing the state for stenographers' work more than $1,000 has been made of the evidence in the case of Seymour Barrington, the alleged English lord who was convicted at Clayton several months ago on a charge of murdering James P. McCann, the horseman, and sentenced to be hanged. Before presentation to the supreme court with the appeal, the transcript duplicates will have to be compared with the original at an additional cost of $1,000

HOW SHOPPERS ARE SOLD.

Instead of Getting Wonderful Bargains They Very Often Merely Buy Inferior Goods.

Very few women know that when they think they have run across wonderful bargains in some of the shops, when, in fact, they know they are getting certain articles cheaper than usual, because they remember the price paid, apparently, for the same thing at other times, they are really paying all that the goods are worth, for the simple reason that the bargain lot is what manufacturers call "seconds." To all appearances the seconds look just the same as the original lot. If they happen to be underwear, gowns or hosiery the material, manufacture and style seem excellent, but the manufacturer and the buyer know that they are made out of the second choice of material, and cannot be considered first class. They are originally cheaper than goods that were bought first, and can be sold at something of a reduction, so that 9,900 out of 10,000 customers rejoice in the thought that they have really found a bargain, whereas they have paid liberally for what they got. Sometimes underwear that belongs to this lot of "seconds" is marked very plainly with the word on the inside of the hem or edge, but very few people ever think to look for it, or would know what it meant if they happened to see it. When bargain hunting it is a good plan to find out just what grade of goods you are paying for, and if that plan is followed it will be easy to see that the instances where something is obtained for nothing are very rare.—Chicago Post.

PRETTY THINGS IN STOCKS.

What an Ingenious Woman or Girl Can Do with a Little Work and a Handkerchief.

These pretty handkerchief stocks will commend themselves to those who like dainty neckwear, easily made, easily laundered, easily adjusted and best of all, inexpensive. Select a handkerchief that corresponds in size to that of your neckband, so the ends will have the handkerchief edge for a finish. Hemstitched or scalloped borders, white or in colors, will do for Figs. 2 and 4, but for Fig. 3 a square must be chosen that has a border fully an inch wide (a little wider is better), with, if possible, an openwork stripe inside, that when cut away from the plain center will have a finished and firm edge. Such a design is shown in Figs. 1 and 3.

For Fig. 3 fold the handkerchief 4½ inches from the edge if you wish the stock to be two inches high, as at 2 in Fig. 1. Cut off this strip, narrowly hem on the raw edge, and fold to form the neck piece. For the tab cut off the borders marked b, beginning at a. If there is a good inside finish overhand these strips together, as shown in Fig. 3. Otherwise turn the raw edge once as for hemming, and put the two border pieces together with fagoting or some other open stitch. Sew the tab to the under part of the stock in the center.

The neck piece in Figs. 2 and 4 is made in the same way. After cutting this off, from the remainder cut the square e, and from that the piece c, this making the lower part of the double tab. The upper part is shorter and is shaped like d, which can be cut from the last quarter. Make a neat narrow hem on the raw side edges, put together and sew on neck piece as for Fig. 3.

Fig. 4 differs from the others in that the tab is formed of a square whose sides are as long as b, or if a shorter tab is liked make the square the size of e. Fold in cascade form, as shown, and square off the top. Neatly hem the raw side edges, and if preferred fold them under out of sight.—Farm and Home.

How to Keep Hair Light.

Kep your hair light by exposing it to the sun as many hours each week as you possibly can. Soda or borax will keep it light, but they are not the best shampoos, as they make the hair brittle. A good tonic is made of one pint bay rum, one ounce castor oil, one drachm tincture cantharides, one drachm carbonate ammonia. Use three times a week at first, gradually lessening. Try egg shampoos.

Not So Marvelous.

"It has been demonstrated that a frog can live without brains."

"Oh, well, there are quite a number of human beings who come pretty near doing it."—Brooklyn Life.

NEW INDUSTRY FOR WOMEN

Out in California They Get Dish-Rags from the Garden Instead of from the Stores.

A novel enterprise, that of raising dish-rags, is being exploited by a number of southern California horticulturists, who received the inspiration for the scheme from Charles Richardson, whose gardens in Pasadena are becoming famous for their remarkable productions. Mr. Richardson has successfully raised many growths new to American soil, and this year is exceeding all his previous triumphs by raising thousands of dish-rags.

Last year Mr. Richardson's string-beans, which measured 43 inches in length, created a stir, but dish-rag vines, which, with their pendant dish-rags—twine about orange trees, palms, evergreens and peach trees, and peek in at the two-story windows, bid fair to win the championship from the beans.

These dish-rags, or vegetable sponges, as they are sometimes called, are indigenous to Africa, but now it has been demonstrated that they will thrive in this country they are bound to become a popular production.

The New York Tribune says that the graceful foliage vines are not only ornamental, but they bear in profusion a fibrous sponge that is eminently useful for bathing, as well as for scouring pans and kettles. Imagine picking dish-rags in one's garden, just as one would pick blackberries, or imagine having vines all laden with dish-rags clambering over one's kitchen windows, so that all one needs to do is to stretch out an arm and pull one in. Such an arrangement would be much easier than going to the ragbag or buying dish-rags at stores.

These curious vegetables assume the form and appearance of cucumbers, and hang on the vines until their green coats become brown and dry like parchment. At this stage they are ready to harvest. After they are picked the brown coat is removed, and an extremely strong and compact fibrous sponge is revealed. Through the center of this sponge, in three lengthwise compartments, are many black seeds which shake out easily. In the Pasadena garden these sponges have averaged eight inches in length.

A CHANGE FOR THE BETTER

Present Fashion Is Against the Display of Rings and Jewels in the Daytime.

"Women are not wearing rings as they did several years ago," said a well-known gem expert, when asked if rings are no longer stylish. "They buy more rings than ever before, but they use them only for full dress.

"Why, as recently as five years ago the sex had a craze for making pawnshop displays on their hands, and wore rings morning, noon and night, anywhere and everywhere. Even women in the deepest mourning did not discard their rings.

"But it is not so now. The matron is content with wearing her wedding ring, even putting aside her engagement ring, while her single sister, if she wears even one ring, usually adopts a plain dull gold seal ring adorned with her coat-of-arms or somebody else's.

"Rings are brought out with the stars, but it is now considered quite vulgar to burden the hands with them in the daylight."—N. Y. Sun.

Cream for Chapped Hands.

A cream for chapped hands, which is also a whitener, is made as follows: One ounce white wax, one ounce spermaceti, one ounce nut oil, all added to one-quarter ounce camphor gum dissolved in one ounce olive oil. Melt together and beat to a cream. Rub into the hands after bathing them in warm water and castile soap. The cure is aided by sleeping in loose kid gloves after the application, as this prevents the cream rubbing off during the night; it also causes a slight perspiration of the hands, which it whitening.

He—Miss DeJones, Clara, I never loved any one but you. Will you be my wife?

She—But I've been told that you proposed to four other girls within a month.

LOUISVILLE FOWL A FREAK.

Has the Head of a Chicken and the Body of a Duck and Quacks and Cackles.

A thoroughly developed duck, so far as feet, wings and body are concerned, surmounted with a head which would do credit to the proudest cock that ever strutted a barn yard, is a fowl owned by Albert G. Eilers, who lives on the Beardstown pike, two miles from Louisville, Ky. The bird has just passed its first birthday, and for the past 12 months has been an object of unparalleled curiosity.

Mr. Eilers is the proprietor of a grocery and saloon, and as a side issue is a chicken and dog fancier. He also has a number of ducks of the ordinary white variety, and it was one of these which hatched the freak fowl last summer. When the chicken-duck first appeared Mr. Eilers knew not what to do with it. He scarcely expected it to live on account of its deformities, but after a sickly week or two it began to grow and thrive, until it now weighs nearly six pounds. The bird was hatched from a duck's egg, and for a week was cared for by a mother duck. The mother soon noticed the curious build of the fowl, however, and immediately disowned her offspring. Mr. Eilers then carefully cared for it until it was able to secure its own living among the chickens and ducks of his barn yard.

The head of the hybrid is as perfectly constructed as that of any chicken. The bill is slightly longer than that usually owned by chickens, but the head and comb are exact. The neck is long and carries the head erect, but at its base the resemblance to a chicken ceases entirely. The body is long and low and waddles about on a pair of short legs to which are appended webbed feet. The wings are large and capable of carrying the bird a considerable distance through the air. The fowl takes to water as readily as a duck, but eats everything peculiar to a chicken. Its voice is the most peculiar part about its make-up. At times the "quack! quack!" of a duck is heard all over the lot, and an instant later the "cackle! cackle!" of a chicken almost destroys the equilibrium of any curious observer.

TREELESS PASTURE SHADE

Progressive Dairymen Nowadays Provide Shelter for Cows from the Rays of the Sun.

It has been demonstrated to be such a profitable necessity that progressive dairymen are now providing some means for shade in treeless pastures. Almost any sort of a shed constructed of old lumber, or poles covered with boughs, fodder, straw, etc., will answer the purpose. Where lumber is expensive and green boughs are not readily at hand a cheap cotton cover may be used very effectively and economically, as shown in the cut. The pasture fence will serve as one side of such a shed, setting posts at convenient distances from same upon which to lay the cross-pieces as indicated.—Farm and Home.

When the Lightning Strikes.

Here is a suggestion from an exchange that may prove of some value: The season of lightning losses is now on. A large share of losses which the farmers' mutual insurance companies are called upon to pay is caused by loss of stock by lightning. This results from the almost universal use of wire fencing for the pastures and the failure to properly ground the wires, the wire on the fence being able to carry a current heavy enough to kill stock half a mile from the point of discharge. A crow bar, some short pieces of wire and a man can protect an ordinary pasture in half a day. A piece of wire attached to the fence wire and run in the ground to a depth of three feet will do the work if placed every 30 or 40 rods along the fence.

Retopping of Apple Trees.

In answer to the inquiry: "Will it pay to re-top a large sweet apple tree, a foot or more in diameter?" the Maine experiment station says that apple trees up to a foot in diameter may be top-worked if unsatisfactory. Care should be used that too much of the top is not removed in any one year. Cut off about one-third of the top the first year and insert scions on stubs not more than two or three inches in diameter. The next year remove more of the top and insert other scions, and the following year complete the work.

Gilt Edge Farm Butter.

The old churn used to turn out fine butter on the farm. To-day, with the knowledge of handling, ripening and churning that has become so general, the churn should be able to turn out really gilt-edge butter. Such butter would promptly put a profit into dairy farming.—Midland Farmer.

Explained His Assertion.

By the use of the saline solution the Cheerful Idiot, who had been punched in the jaw for a previous offense, was revived.

"What did you mean?" asked the anxious watchers, "when you said that you saw her draw a revolver?"

"Perhaps the statement should be qualified," he admitted, in a dazed way. "She was sketching a merry-go-round, you know."—Cleveland Leader.

Still More Evidence.

Bay City, Ill., August 8 (Special).—Mr. K. F. Henley, of this city, adds his evidence to that published almost daily that a sure cure for Rheumatism is now before the American people, and that that cure is Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Henley had acute Rheumatism. He has used Dodd's Kidney Pills. He says of the result:

"After suffering for sixteen years with Rheumatism and using numerous medicines for Rheumatism and more medicines prescribed by doctors, I at last tried Dodd's Kidney Pills with the result that I got more benefit from them than all the others put together.

"Dodd's Kidney Pills were the only thing to give me relief, and I recommend them to all suffering from Acute Rheumatism."

Rheumatism is caused by Uric Acid in the blood. Healthy kidneys take all the Uric Acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills make healthy kidneys.

Care of the Hair.

It is now generally agreed that many of the shampoos in use are injurious to the hair. The best treatment is frequent brushing and absolute cleanliness. AN OLD MAN'S TRIBUTE.

An Ohio Fruit Raiser, 78 Years Old, Cured of a Terrible Case after Ten Years of Suffering.

Sidney Justus, fruit dealer, of Mentor, Ohio, says: "I was cured by Doan's Kidney Pills of a severe case of kidney trouble, of eight or ten years' standing. I suffered the most severe backache and other pains in the region of the kidneys. These were especially severe when stooping to lift anything and often I could hardly straighten my back. The aching was bad in the day time, but just as bad at night, and I was always lame in the morning. I was bothered with rheumatic pains and dropsical swelling of the feet. The urinary passages were painful and the secretions were discolored and so free that often I had to rise at night. I felt tired all day. Half a box served to relieve me, and three boxes effected a permanent cure."

To be a successful wife, to retain the love and admiration of her husband should be a woman's constant study. If she would be all that she may, she must guard well against the signs of ill health. Mrs. Brown tells her story for the benefit of all wives and mothers.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will make every mother well, strong, healthy and happy. I dragged through nine years of miserable existence, worn out with pain and weariness. I then noticed a statement of a woman troubled as I was; and the wonderful results she had had from your Vegetable Compound, and decided to try what it would do for me, and used it for three months. At the end of that time, I was a different woman, the neighbors remarked it, and my husband fell in love with me all over again. It seemed like a new existence. I had been suffering with inflammation and falling of the womb, but your medicine cured that, and built up my entire system, till I was indeed like a new woman.—Sincerely yours, MRS. CHAS. F. Mothers and Daughters

Every woman who has a grown daughter knows well the worry and anxiety which always comes at that period of life when girlhood merges into womanhood. Upon a girl's condition at this time depends her future health, strength and happiness. Too much care can not be taken to see that she passes through this period safely.

AUNT DINAH'S OLD VIRGINIA

Herb Tea

A BOON TO WOMANKIND

is of the greatest assistance to nature in bringing about the change which takes place, without disarranging the natural functions of the system. It is a strengthening tonic. It will keep the roses in a girl's cheeks and prevent that tendency to decline which so often endangers her life at this critical point in development.

This Herb Tea is likewise of corresponding value and assistance to matrons and mothers at the end of this period. Its use will at this time prevent endless pain and worry. A woman will enter the evening of life with scarcely the knowledge that the change has occurred. Many are the thankful women who know the value of Aunt Dinah's Old Virginia Herb Tea and are grateful for the benefits derived from its use.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

HORNING, SR.

At the home of his son, Amos Horning, Jr., near Howards Siding the venerable Mr. Horning passed away at the advanced age of 83. The immediate cause of his death was fromin juries received by falling in the yard at his son's home.

He was born near Norristown, Pa., and enjoyed the advantages of a good education. He became an active business man in Philadelphia in early manhood, giving employment to many men, sometime in the 60's he moved to Kersey, Elk Co., engaging in the coal business, in the year 1872 he moved to Penfield engaging in the hardware busines, where he lived until he moved to Emporium. He was converted over fifty years ago in St. Georges Church Philadelphia, and was a staunch supporter of old Methodism; his exemplary christian life was an inspiration to all with whom he associated.

The funeral services were held at the residence of his son July 27th 1904, services were conducted by Rev. R. A Robertson assisted by Rev. Sypher of the Cameron circuit. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends at the services, about seventy going to the cemetery with the bereaved family. He leaves a widow and one son and many friends to mourn his loss.

A dreadful suspicion begins to haunt the New England mind that the students and graduates of the agricultural colleges in the six states of that section of the earth, never intend to become flat-footed farmers. To dig the dirt with one's own hands is thought in old England to be degrading, according to Mr. Balfour, and he ought to know. The same idea appears to be gaining ground in New England. Agricultural students learn nothing practical about farming in an agricultural college. The only place to teach that is on the farm, where the conditions of soil, insect pests, drunken farm hands, weeds and hysterical weather, confront the farmer for practical solution. The college graduate expects to become a biologist, a mosquito expert, a boll weevil exterminator, a traveler to China to hunt for parasites, an ornithologist, a geologist, a student of the migration of birds, or some similar "scientist" with the title of "Professor" before his name.

Healthy Mothers.

Mothers should always keep in good bodily health. They owe it to their children. Yet it is no unusual sight to see a mother, with babe in arms, coughing violently and exhibiting all the symptoms of a consumptive tendency. And why should this dangerous condition exist, dangerous alike to mother and child, when Dr. Boschee's German Syrup would put a stop to it at once? No mother should be without this old and tried remedy in the house—for its timely use will promptly cure any lung, throat or bronchial trouble in herself or her children. The worst cough or cold can be speedily cured by German Syrup; so can hoarseness and congestion of the bronchial tubes. It makes expectoration easy, and gives instant relief and refreshing rest to the cough racked consumptive. New trial bottles, 25; large size, 75c. At all druggists. 49-ly.

Taken With Cramps.

Wm. Kirmse, a member of the bridge gang working near Littleport was taken suddenly ill Thursday night with cramps and a kind of cholera. His case was so severe that he had to have the members of the crew wait upon him and Mr. Gifford was called and consulted. He told them he had a medicine in the form of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy that he thought would help him out and accordingly several doses were administered with the result that the fellow was able to be around next day. The incident speaks quite highly of Mr. Gifford's medicines.—Elkador, Iown, Argus.
